Ways of working for:

The ACHIEVE (Associations Collaborating in Hepatitis to Immunize and Eliminate the Viruses in Europe) coalition.

The proposition	Deaths from viral hepatitis continue to rise in Europe at an alarming rate whilst the burden of other major diseases continue to decline thanks to a combination of technological innovation and sustained public health investment. The elimination of viral hepatitis has become an achievable healthcare objective through the development of curative treatments and effective vaccines. Historically there has been a low level of political support and indeed action to tackle viral hepatitis. Several expert groups are active in Europe working on viral hepatitis from different perspectives (patients, public health, clinicians, harm reduction). Without creating a new expert group, the Initiative should bring together these groups, so they can speak with one voice, raise awareness jointly and be heard by policy makers. Working together towards a common cause will help to amplify the critical messages of the viral hepatitis community and generate much desired political action by decision-makers to devise, adopt and implement a comprehensive approach to eliminating viral hepatitis throughout the European neighbourhood, improving both patient outcomes and health systems' sustainability.
Collaboration	The following organisations, and appointed representatives, are engaged as members of this coalition: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Massimo Colombo, EASL International Liver Foundation• Charles Gore, World Hepatitis Alliance• Angelos Hatzakis, Hepatitis B & C Public Policy Association• Jeffrey Lazarus, Barcelona Institutue for Global Health (ISGlobal)• Luis Mendao, European AIDS Treatment Group (EATG)• Tatjana Reic, European Liver Patients' Association (ELPA)• Eberhard Schatz, Correlation Network• Mark Thursz, Imperial College London• Pierre Van Damme, Viral Hepatitis Prevention Board (VHPB)• Gilead Sciences representative• MSD representative• Abbott representative• Cepheid representative Public institutions such as WHO Europe, European Commission, European Center for Disease Prevention and Control (ECDC), European Monitoring Centre for Drugs and Drug Addiction (EMCDDA), Health Protection Scotland, as well as European Association for the Study of the Liver (EASL) will be invited as observer members. The Initiative recognises and respects the diversity of the viral hepatitis community and the unique epidemiological profile of viral hepatitis in every country of the European Region.
Objectives	The primary objective of the coalition is to form an alliance enabling key stakeholders to act in common cause to secure political will and leadership for the elimination of viral hepatitis B and C in Europe. In-line with the WHO's Global health sector strategy on viral hepatitis 2016-2021 and the WHO Europe Action plan for the health sector response to viral hepatitis in the

	WHO European Region, the focus of the joint initiative is viral hepatitis with specific priority applied to those with the highest mortality, i.e. hepatitis B and C. The geographic focus of the Initiative is the WHO Europe region, a critical actor in the fight against viral hepatitis alongside the EU institutions, namely the European Commission, European Parliament, and the current and future EU Council presidencies. The Initiative will achieve its objectives by: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. advocating for a new Declaration that sets policy expectations as regards prevention, screening, and detection, linkage to care, evaluation and surveillance of viral hepatitis on at least an equal footing to HIV/Aids and Tuberculosis; 2. supporting EU policy which supports Member States in achieving the WHO elimination targets and the UN's Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), such as an impactful EU policy framework on HIV, viral hepatitis and TB, which looks at all three diseases on an equal footing.
What The Initiative will do	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ The coalition will determine a programme of activity to support the achievement of its objectives. The tactical nature of implementation may vary during the life of the project in order to adapt to fluid and changeable operating conditions. ▪ The Initiative may adopt a political statement, published in a reputable and appropriate clinical journal, setting out the case for the elimination of viral hepatitis and a serious public health threat requiring urgent prioritisation by European decision-makers. ▪ The Initiative may gather, interpret and leverage existing evidence created by relevant expert stakeholder organisations throughout the membership to support the “case for viral hepatitis” and provide guidance to policymakers. ▪ The Initiative may identify political opportunities and engage with and raise awareness among policymakers at European level and in selected sovereign states. A range of engagement tactics may be deployed including policy roundtable seminars, high-level discussion meetings with policymakers and various stakeholder events targeting decision-makers.
Composition, including roles, responsibilities and decision making processes	The success of the coalition rests entirely on the voluntary commitment of its members. Members of the Initiative can be both individuals and organisations and can either have full member or have observer status. There are two different types of membership of the coalition performing different roles and functions: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Full members: representatives from relevant non-governmental organisations, academic or clinical organisations active in the fight against viral hepatitis, deciding strategic intent of the coalition • Observer members: relevant members of public and other institutions and representatives of private sector organisations who are invited to participate and contribute to meetings and events. All members: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Contribute on a voluntary basis to the coalition and will not be remunerated for participation in meetings or events. • Contribute to the discussion and can express their views. • Are acknowledged on relevant material and documents, produced by the coalition.
